LOVERS' LUCK

By Constance D'Arcy Mackay

Copyright, 1906, by C. H. Sutcliffe

On a bright May morning as Barry O'Gill was crossing the fields by a well worn footpath, balancing a bag of meal on his back, he caught sight of Moira Nolan washing linen in the little river that brawled its way through the village of Ballymoran. The brook gushed and sang over its pebbles, and Moira's young voice sang with it as her white arms flashed in the clear water. She was on her knees, straight and supple as a willow, her bare feet tucked under her with only the rosy heels showing. The wind caught a strand of her hair and whipped it out till it shone like beaten gold in the sun. Barry paused, dazzled, and gazed at her, his mouth agape, his sack of meal forgotten on his back. Presently the girl was aware of his presence and that he was watching her.

"What are ye gaping at at all?" she questioned.

"At the loveliest girl in all Ireland," said Barry, never taking his eyes from her.

"Sorrow be to ye if your mother knew it," laughed Moira, bending to her work again. "And angry she'd be to find ye here. Ye'd best go back to her."

Barry flushed till his cheeks were redder than his hair. "It's here that I'll sthop," he said decidedly, dumping down his sack and seating himself on the grass.

Moira's thrust had been a keen one, for all the village knew that he lived in fear of his mother's tongue. "Shure, it's the sting of a wasp she has entoirely," was the verdict of her neighbors, from whom the Widow O'Gill held somewhat aloof, though now and again she condescended to call on Mrs. Terhune for "a bit of gossip and a dish of tay."

Barry was Mrs. O'Gill's only child and the idol of her heart. Did he so much as look at a girl, Mrs. O'Gill was filled with alarm. So while the other lads lingered about the church steps after mass that they might see their sweethearts, Barry was hurried off homeward by his mother. Therefore it was with a sense of recklessness and novelty that he gave himself up to a talk with Moira. She bade him help her wring the clothes and then laughed at his awkwardness and splashed him with glittering drops. The time went quickly. It was noon before they knew it, and Barry sped home to his dinner and a scolding. Yet he hardly heard the words his mother heaped on him, so engrossed was he with the memory of Moira's gray eyes and the exquisite curve of her lips. Love comes swiftly when one is young in Ballymoran.

He and Moira met often after that, sometimes at the edge of the little river and sometimes on the roads by which the hawthorn hedges bloomed, a mass of pink and green. The more Barry thought of Moira the more he realized that his mother would never consent to his marriage. Moira's beauty was the only dowry the girl had. Of all the poor folk in Ballymoran she was by far the poorest.

Nor was Barry much richer. It was his mother who held the purse strings. Once, in desperation, he thought of giving up Moira, and for three whole days he did not see her. Then quite by accident he met her coming across a field. She was about to pass him with averted face.

"Moira!" he cried brokenly.

At that she turned. She was pale and there were deep shadows under her eyes. All that Barry had kept pent in his heart rushed to his lips, and Moira listened, looking down and plucking at a bit of hawthorn she held in her hand. A lark rose from the long meadow grass near by, and soaring into the air poured out a song that seemed but an echo of the ecstasy that was in their hearts. It was Moira who made the first return to earth.

"Does your mother know of it?" she questioned.

"Divvle a bit," said Barry cheerfully, "and where would be the good o' telling her? She'd niver consent to it in the wide worruld. 'Tis a runaway match we'll have to make, mavourneen. We'll be afther taking a thrip to the next parish and back some foine day."

"But where will we live at all, Barry, darlint?" cried Moira, still troubled.

"Rest aisy," said Barry; "I can make somewhat working in the bogs, and that will give us a bite and a sup. And there's owld McShane's cabin that's been desarted ever since he went to America. Troth, it's a ramshackle place, and there's no denying it! The roof lakes, but I can mend it with fresh turf. And though the room is as small as a nut, what a foine view we'll have from the doorway. And if the chimbley is owld and shmokey, after all 'twill be our own. Arrah, trust to luck, Moira, achree! And lovers' luck, shure, it's the best of all!"

"True for ye, Barry," agreed Moira, and, happy and improvident, they drifted back into their lovers' paradise, and one morning before the first birds were astir and Ballymoran lay in the cool grayness of the dawn they slipped away to the next parish. By the middle of the afternoon they were back again, and all the village knew of their romance.

Mrs. Terhune hastened to bring the news to Mrs. O'Gill, but the latter, pushing forward a chair, did not wait for her to speak.

"Have ye seen aught of my boy Barry?" she demanded. "The lazy gossoon! Go'ing since morning, and not a bit of work has he done the day, bad cess to him!"

It was a fine opening for Mrs. Terhune, and, sitting on the opposite side of the hearth, she told her story, Mrs. O'Gill interrupting from time to time with passionate ejaculations. "The curse of all the crows upon him! And sorrow to me for having a bowld, deceitful son murthering my heart with his cruel actions! May he niver cross my threshold again! 'Tis a serpint's tooth he is, a serpint's tooth!"

Mrs. Terhune wagged her head wisely.

"He is so," she agreed, with relish, "he is so! The most good for nothing lad in the parish, and he marrying the poorest gurl of it! There's not a boy for miles around but what would have more sense! My children, now, they're foine, clever lads, and, och, woman, dear, it's often I've said to myself I pitied ye having such a great, awkward, shtupid galloot for a son!"

But Mrs. Terhune had ventured too far. While she was speaking Mrs. O'Gill's face had flushed and then paled again. After all, Barry was her own son, blood of her blood and flesh of her flesh, and the mother in her rose, armed. Eyes and voice ablaze, she turned on Mrs. Terhune.

"Spare your pity," she cried breathlessly, "spare your pity! My boy has married where his heart led him, and if the gurl is poor, so much the better. He is not like some I know, who spend their days hanging after the rich. Aye, ye may wince, Bridget Terhune, for ye know what I mean. Clever children, indaid! 'Tis myself that's thankful to heaven that my Barry is not like your jabbering, knockkneed omathons! 'Twas like ye to come here with your spiteful words, and now, if ye've had your say, ye may take yourself off!"

But Mrs. Terhune had already gathered herself together and was stumbling down the road, muttering as she went. On the way she passed Barry and his bride, walking hand in hand toward the forlorn, tumbledown cabin they meant to make their home. She went by them flapping like a wet hen, and they failed to recognize in her their saving angel. Instead, they looked fearfully ahead to where Barry saw a familiar figure approaching over the crest of the hill, a spare, keen eyed woman with a red shawl about her shoulders.

Mrs. O'Gill faced the culprits grimly.

"'Tis a foine hour for ye to be coming home," she cried sharply. "The supper's been set for the both of ye this long time, and 'twill be ruined entoirely."

She gave Moira a piercing glance. The last light of the afterglow touched the girl's face with a pale glory. "'Tis a slim creature ye are," said Mrs. O'Gill, her voice softening. "When I was a gurl I had bright eyes, too, and the same color o' hair. Ah, heaven be with thim owld times! 'Tis long since I was young!" She turned from them abruptly and went on ahead, leading the way home.

The lovers followed in a happy daze, too overwhelmed to question how such fortune came about. "Did I not tell ye," said the rapturous Barry, "that lovers' luck is the greatest in the worruld?"

This Hat Always In Style.

Fashions in women's headgear come and go in regular cycles, but there is one class of women in this country who stick to one kind of hat through the summer season year after year, with never a thought to the prevailing fashions in other circles of society. These are the "camalers," who invariably are seen in the sunbonnets, no matter what part of the country their homes are afloat in. Considering that most of the time they live under the awnings suspended over their cabin homes, one would scarcely think all this shade was necessary. But they stick to their favorite hats, nevertheless. It is a curiosity of the taste in headgear of the women who spend their lives working as cooks on the vessels of the great lakes that one rarely sees a sunbonnet among them, and yet awnings on these craft are seldom used. But that is only another evidence of the fact of what variety there is among the eternal feminine.—New York Press.

A Legend of Agincourt.

For many centuries we English have plumed ourselves upon the victory of Agincourt. Indeed it is from King Henry V.'s address to his soldiers on that occasion, as given by Shakespeare, that the motto of this journal is taken, "Familiar in their mouths as household words." But the French have an account of the affair not so much to our credit. It was arranged, according to this fable, by the two leaders that only the nobles on each side were to fight. King Henry V. then artfully enabled his whole army and hence got the best of the enemy. Shakespeare unwittingly gives a little countenance to the legend when he makes the king declare in the above mentioned address, "Be ye ne'er so vile, this day shall gentle your condition."—London Standard.

Getting Into His Place.

When Governor Head was in office in New Hampshire Colonel Barrett, an estimable member of the governor's staff, died, and there was an unseemly scramble of would be successors for the office, even while his body was awaiting burial with military honors. One candidate, somewhat bolder than the rest, ventured to call upon Governor Head, thinking to ascertain the bent of the governor's mind upon the important question.

"Governor," he asked, "not to speak in a manner too positive, do you think you would have any objections if I was to get into Colonel Barrett's place?"

The answer came pat enough. "No, I don't think I should have any objections, if the undertaker is willing."

Hard to Catch Up.

Two Silesians, seated in a music hall, began to argue about the music of Wagner. The argument as it progressed grew heated. The upshot was that the younger challenged the older Silesian to a duel.

But the older Silesian declined to fight.

"No, no," he said. "I refuse to meet you. The risks are not equal. You, you see, are a bachelor, whereas I am a married man with three children. I'll tell you what to do. Go get married and wait till you've a family as large as mine. Then, when our risks are alike, come and challenge me again."

The younger man complied. He married. Three years passed and one day three years later he went, accompanied by a nursemaid, to his opponent's home.

"Here I am," he said fiercely. "My wife is at home. In this coach are my three children. Now for the duel."

But the older man shook his head.

"Not yet awhile," he said. "I have five now."

Exercise For Business Men.

The average city business man without physical impediments to fight against can probably get along successfully on such an exercise schedule as the following:

First.—Five minutes each day of purely muscular exercise, such as can be taken perfectly well in one's room without any special apparatus.

Second.—Short intervals during the day of fresh air, brisk walking, deep breathing. This can all be secured in the regular order of the day's business. A man can easily spend as much as half an hour walking out of doors every day. This is for heart, lungs and digestion.

Third.—The reservation of at least one day a week for rest and recreation, for being out of doors, for playing games, etc. This is essential. This is for both body and mind. A man who thinks he can get along without at least one vacation time a week simply proves his ignorance.—World's Work.

The Bite of a Girl.

The bite of a girl may be as productive of poisonous germs as improperly prepared foods, according to the statements of Professor W. D. Miller of the University of Berlin. In a lecture the professor said that a bite of a pretty girl would often bring a quicker and more horrible death than the bite of a serpent. Professor Miller, who has made a special study of the bacteria of the mouth, said that only a short time ago he experimented on a beautiful girl in Germany and found that an arrow dipped in saliva from her mouth would send its victim in death throes more terrible than one dipped in the venom of the most deadly snake.—What to Eat.

Twins Born In Different Years.

"I have often been present at the birth of twins," said an old nurse. "Only once was I present, though, when the twins were born in different years."

"Twins born in different years? You are crazy," said the young bride.

"Not a bit of it," said the old nurse. "The thing happened in Pittsburg in 1899. The first twin was born at 11:30 o'clock on the night of Dec. 31, 1899, and the second was born at 1 o'clock in the morning of Jan. 1, 1900. There are, ma'am, a number of other cases recorded of twins born in different years."

The Cat Had Chickens.

The old housekeeper met the master at the door on his arrival home.

"If you please, sir," she said, "the cat has had chickens."

"Nonsense, Mary," laughed he. "You mean kittens. Cats don't have chickens."

"Was them chickens or kittens as you brought home last night?" asked the old woman.

"Why, they were chickens, of course."

"Just so, sir," replied Mary, with a twinkle. "Well, the cat's had 'em!"

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are exactly akin to the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid, or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions are selected by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

The Striking Carmen and The United Railroads.

THE street car strike is an unfortunate thing for poor, old earthquake shattered and fire devastated San Francisco, which surely has had enough to contend with the past few months without becoming the victim of a war between capital and labor. Should this deplorable strike continue any length of time it will prove a great setback to the upbuilding of Newer and Greater San Francisco and lead to the utter ruination of many a victim of the disaster which desolated in three days the magnificent metropolis of the Pacific who were well on their way to securing another foothold amid the ruins on their building sites. That the overworked and underpaid carmen are entitled to a raise in their wages no one conversant with the present cost of living in San Francisco dare deny. Everything that a working man needs—the necessaries of life—have gone up in price amazingly in that city and suburban towns recently and for several months the carmen, their wives and their children have not lived as they ought to. They have simply existed.

From this view point, that the United Railroads did not at once accede to a demand from their underpaid employees for a living wage and thus avert a strike, the end of which cannot now be seen, is one of those things that is past finding out, for surely the carmen were entitled to an advance in wages and the earning capacity of the gigantic corporation could well afford to stand the advance and still earn handsome dividends for its Eastern stockholders.

However this may be, we question the wisdom of the carmen in precipitating a strike at this time which is harmful to every business and working man in the metropolis. It appears to us that the carmen have been misled by poor advisers and that had they used their individual judgment in the matter there would have been no strike, their demands would have been acceded in a very short time and there would be less unhappy homes among the over-worked and under-paid toilers for a grasping corporation that has seized the public thoroughfares of a stricken city to earn princely dividends for the stockholders of a metropolis on the other side of the continent which enjoys the distinction of being the richest and biggest city in the world outside of London.

MISS MINNIE COULTER, who is out for the Democratic nomination of School Superintendent, will undoubtedly be given a place on the ticket. She is the only Democratic candidate for the office who can win out. However, the Democrats may desire to concede the School Superintendency to the Republicans this election and in that event will turn her down and nominate a weaker candidate. Should they do this there will be no objections from the Republicans, as they want all the offices they can get this Fall.

Acute Laryngitis.

George Washington died of a disease that was then called a quinsy, but which is now known as acute laryngitis. His physicians treated him according to their best light and knowledge, but such treatment now would be little short of criminal. An eminent authority says that if medical men had known as much then as they do now the distinguished patient would probably have been cured in a week. As it was, he slowly strangled to death by the closing of his throat. At the present time physicians treat a case of this kind by tracheotomy—that is, by making an opening into the windpipe, through which the patient may breathe. They also diagnose a case by using the laryngoscope, which enables them to look into the throat and see exactly what the trouble is.

Grass Fire.

A grass fire was started on the Malini lot back of the public school house Wednesday afternoon but was extinguished by near-by neighbors before any serious damage had been done. The fire was caused by sparks from a well-boring engine which was being used in boring for artesian water on the lot.

The Better Way

The tissues of the throat are inflamed and irritated; you cough, and there is more irritation—more coughing. You take a cough mixture and it eases the irritation—for a while. You take and it cures the cold. That's what is necessary. It soothes the throat because it reduces the irritation; cures the cold because it drives out the inflammation; builds up the weakened tissues because it nourishes them back to their natural strength. That's how Scott's Emulsion deals with a sore throat, a cough, a cold, or bronchitis.

PRINCIPAL NOLAN AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

Principal Walter C. Nolan is again trouble. He was placed under arrest Wednesday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Ryan on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Dal Poggetto, the wife of one of Sonoma's prominent business men, who charged him with cruelly assaulting her little nine-year-old son Newton. The accused Principal was taken before Judge Small and then released on his own recognizance until 6.45 in the evening to enter his plea.

According to the lad's story he engaged in a quarrel with another boy of about his own age near the school house on Tuesday afternoon immediately after school had been dismissed. Observing the mix-up between the little fellows, Nolan hastened from the school-room and seizing the Dal Poggetto boy by the arm dragged him into the school house and gave him a terrible beating with a strap nearly two inches wide and several feet long. When he had finished the beating the little fellow's back, legs and arms were one mass of red welts and black and blue marks.

When the lad came home and Mrs. Dal Poggetto saw the inhuman beating her child had been subjected to she immediately cared for the little fellow and then sent for School Trustees Campbell and Harris, before whom she complained and exhibited the little lad's injuries as proof of the teacher's brutality.

An Index-Tribune reporter called at the Dal Poggetto home on Broadway the morning following the beating to see for himself the little fellow's bruised body and we can truthfuliy say he presented a pitiful sight—no prize-fighter in the ring was ever subjected to a more cruel beating about the body.

When his case was called in Judge Small's Court in the evening Nolan, through his counsel Frank Sprague, entered a plea of not guilty and his trial was set for 4 p. m. Thursday.

When the case was called before Judge Small on Thursday afternoon T. J. Butts of Santa Rosa was present and represented the prosecution and Frank Sprague appeared for the defense. After a consultation between counsel the case went over until this (Saturday) morning until 9 o'clock.

The new building will cover the whole site of the old Stahl building as well as that of Lee Bros.' building on Fourth street and will run back on the lots towards Third street.

E. de Bernardi, proprietor of the Magnolia hotel, on Thursday purchased from George Tyler Trowbridge and C. C. Donovan the lot at the corner of Fifth and A street formerly owned by Mr. Hodgson, and will erect thereon a fine hotel building. It will be three or four stories high, and will contain about 120 rooms. The lot is 100x100 feet and adjoins the sixty foot frontage Mr. Trowbridge owns on Fifth street.

FATHERS' CLUB MEET IN I. O. O. F. HALL.

Permanent Organizetion is Perfected by Earnest Heads of Families.

The Fathers' Club met in Odd Fellows Hall last Thursday evening at the call of President Thos. Brown. Forty members were present.

After the President pro tem had stated the object of the meeting a permanent organization was perfected by the election of the following officers: President Thos. Brown; Secretary, Skelton Glaister; Treasurer, Chas. Dal Poggetto.

An executive committee composed of five members was subsequently appointed by President Brown, as follows: Philip Bill, Wm. Trudgen, E. E. Griffith, T. J. MacQuiddy and H. H. Granice.

The members of the club are for the most part heads of large families, all of whom have children attending the public school in this place or drawing school money. For the most part their membership is confined to farmers and business men who have joined hands to reform school matters here. In this they are both earnest and determined, their sole thought being of the wellfare of their boy and girls.

The members of the Fathers' Club represent 115 school children in the Sonoma school district and and it is still growing.

All that the members of this organization seek is their school rights as taxpayers and citizens having the best interests of our public school at heart.

ON TO EUREKA, HUMBOLDT COUNTY.

Southern Pacific to Close Gap Between Sherwood and the North.

Southern Pacific surveyors are now reported in the field along Eel river mapping out a route from Portland, Or., to connect with the terminus of the California Northwestern railway at Sherwood via Eureka.

For some time past the former road has been perfecting plans for the extension of its railway system to Portland by way of Eureka, and this latest move on its part will enable the people of this valley to have their fondest desires realized for a transcontinental railway system.

The Santa Rosa papers announced yesterday that the junction of the Southern Pacific and California Northwestern lines will be effected in that city. The former road has just secured the right of way through the Ridgeway tract in the northern part of Santa Rosa and the work of distributing materials for the construction of the road has been done. The construction work itself will be under way in a few days.

When the road has been completed through trains will be able to run from Suisun and Vallejo to Ukiah through Santa Rosa, and later on to Eureka. The proposed change will materially reduce the time of shipping stock, lumber, and goods from the north to the East. All transferring will be done away with and a straight line will be established.

This railroad connection has long been desired by the people of Sonoma county and when consummated will prove a great factor in bringing desirable settlers here.

A. Rudolphus of San Francisco, en route to Largo to pick hops, had his foot crushed by a car wheel at Petaluma on Thursday. In his efforts to board the moving train he slipped and fell, and the wheel passed over his foot.

CORNELIUS KNOCKS OUT JACK LANDERS

Emile Cornelius is still the pride of the Sonoma Athletic Club. His battle with Jack Landers of San Francisco last Saturday night proved that he not only possessed that knock-out punch but that he was quick in action and could take as well as give punishment.

After a couple of preliminaries the event of the evening, a six-round contest between Jack Landers of San Francisco and Emile Cornelius, the undefeated champion of Sonoma, was on. The men entered the ring and took their corners. Then there was a wrangle between the seconds of the principals as to the limit of the rounds. The Landers crowd insisted on three-minute rounds while Cornelius' seconds held out for the usual two-minute limit. Finally Landers rushed to Cornelius' corner, where the jaw bone scrap was was taking place between the seconds, and hurled a defy at the Sonoma lad. The argument then became very heated, which boded no good to the principals when they should come together, as both were very angry.

Finally, Cornelius, heedless of the protests of his seconds, conceded the point. There was a scurrying to corners, referee Steiger jumped into the arena, time was called and the men sprang into the center of the ring like catamounts and—well, the fight was on. There was a fearful exchange of blows in which Cornelius floored his man three times. The last time Landers took the count, and as he rose to his feet he threshed out a wicked right hand swing at his opponent, which missed. Cornelius instantly retaliated with a left to the chin and Landers went down and out.

The round was one of the most exciting ever fought here. Landers was badly punished about the face, while Cornelius came out of the mill with scarcely a scratch.

A large crowd witnessed the bout which is the seventh one Cornelius has fought and won.

The Fourpaugh and Sell Bros. show will exhibit in Santa Rosa September 5th and Vallejo on September 6th. Round trip rate to Santa Rosa will be 90 cents and to Vallejo $1.00. Quite a number from this vicinity will see it.

Ferdinand Fiedler of San Luis Obispo, Cal., arrived here Tuesday morning and will occupy the position of assistant agent. We might say for the benefit of the young ladies in this vicinity that Mr. Fiedler is not married and there is a chance for them to capture him.

There are a great many new homes going up in the valley. Every one wants a home that is comfortable and at the same time pleasing to the eye. One thing that greatly adds to the appearance of a house is a nice lawn and trees. Put them out as soon as you can and in a few years you will feel pleased to think you spent a little time that way If you do not know what trees will do for a place, come to El Verano, take a walk around the road that has trees on both sides. After you have passed along this beautiful drive, stop and look back and imagine how desolate and barren it would be if they were not there. The party who planted them must have looked forward into the future and saw how grand they would be in time to come. If it was not for the trees El Verano would be a desolate spot. Now it is one of the most delightful places in Sonoma Valley to spend a vacation. If you have not visited this place do so and see for yourself what a pretty place it is.

As I leave here Saturday morning I desire to thank one and all for the pleasant treatment I have received since coming to this station.

As a whole I have never met a nicer class of people than the residents of El Verano and surrounding valley.

You are located in a beautiful spot. You want to, one and all, work together with a view of making this a better and more attractive place.

Encourage people to come here and make their homes. Also try to get more business people here.

By all working in harmony you will be surprised to see the growth in El Verano in a very few years.

When I have the opportunity of speaking a good word for El Verano I will do so.

V. L. HARVEY (PATSIE.)

El Verano, Aug. 29, 1906.

The Young Physician.

WHAT HIS EXPERIENCE PROVED.

In the early sixties it was usually the duty of a practicing physician to ride many miles every day on his regular round of visits upon his patients. In those days a young man who had received a splendid medical training in one of the best medical colleges of that day was accustomed to ride ten, twenty, thirty miles or more visiting the sick and afflicted. His success was soon phenomenal. Doctors and families called him for consultation to towns at considerable distances by rail. His specialty was the cure of those common and distressing diseases of women. He had early discovered that by combining the extracts of the following medicinal plants, in just the right proportion, without the use of alcohol his "Prescription" almost invariably cured such cases. Later, in order to place this remedy before the public in a shape easily to be procured, he established a laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., where regularly qualified chemists were put in charge to accurately prepare his "Prescription" and put it in shape for shipment to all parts of the world. This remedy, which he named Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a "patent medicine" but a tonic and nervine for women, and a regular physician's prescription, and contains the following ingredients: Lady's Slipper root, Black Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Blue Cohosh root, Golden Seal root, and chemically pure glycerine.

Dr. Pierce does not claim for his "Favorite Prescription" that it is a "cure-all." It is recommended as a most perfect specific for woman's peculiar ailments. So uniform are the results which follow the use of this remarkable remedy, that it can be truly affirmed of "Favorite Prescription" that it always helps and almost always cures. Ninety-eight per cent. of the women who give this medicine a fair and faithful trial are cured and remain cured.

It is a powerful invigorating tonic, imparting health and strength in particular to the womb and its appendages. The local, womanly health is so intimately related to the general health that when diseases of the delicate womanly organs are cured the whole body gains in health and strength. For weak and sickly women who are "worn-out," "run-down" or debilitated, especially for women who work in store, office or schoolroom, who sit at the typewriter or sewing machine, or bear heavy household burdens, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will prove a priceless benefit because of its health-restoring and strength-giving power.

THE PROOF.

"I want to tell you of the great improvement in my health, since taking your 'Favorite Prescription,'" says Mrs. H. S. Jones, of Forest, N. C. "When I began its use I was a physical wreck and had despaired of ever having good health again. Could not sit up all day. I noted a great improvement before the first bottle was all used. Was suffering with almost every pain that a woman is subject to; had inflammation of the ovaries, painful and suppressed periods, and other symptoms of female disease. After taking six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' I felt like a new person. Can ride horseback and take all kinds of exercise and not feel tired."

THE INCONVENIENCE OF SUPERSTITION

[Original.]

Returning to the city after a six months' absence I hastened to congratulate my intimate friend Tom Funk on his engagement, which he had announced to me by letter a few days after my departure. I found him in his den at home smoking an after dinner cigar. He listened to all the pleasant things I had to say to him about entering upon the happy engagement period, then, after waiting for me to light a cigar he handed me, settled back in his chair and said:

"You're too late. It's off."

"Off?"

"Yes, off—off for good."

"What's the trouble?"

"There is or was just one fault in Molly, and, though I admit there are a great many in me, her one fault is a staggerer."

"Extravagance?"

"No. Quite economical."

"Fond of admiration?"

"No more than any woman."

"Hot tempered?"

"On the contrary, she's very amiable."

"I give it up. Tell me what it is."

"She's chock full of petty superstitions. You know how long I was trying to get her. Well, the reason was that she was consulting fortune tellers to find out whether the match would be a lucky or an unlucky one. The witch she had most confidence in told her that there was a dark gentleman wanting her (that's me), but if she married him she'd be very unhappy. It took me a year to find out about this, but when I did I fixed the witch with a five dollar bill and she told Molly she'd got the light and dark gentlemen mixed, and Molly was to marry the dark one. This settled it, and I supposed the coast was clear when Molly informed me that my original proposal had been made on a Friday and I must do it over. I was to call and take her by surprise just as I had done on the first occasion. I agreed, and do you know I struck the thirteenth day of the month. I had to wait a few weeks in order to surprise her again, and this time I didn't strike any bad luck. I proposed for the third time.

"Stupid ass that I was, I went off and bought an opal engagement ring. When I offered it Molly almost fainted. She said that even to offer an opal would involve a never ending chain of bad luck. The engagement must be broken and we must begin all over. This made me tired, but I was very much in love and consented to what I couldn't help. It took us two months to get around to where I could give her another ring. I bought one with a number of stones in the setting, a big one in the center, with two outer circles, the whole forming a cluster. As soon as she saw it she began to count the stones and in another moment turned pale and dropped the ring.

"'What is the matter now?' I gasped.

"'There are thirteen jewels.'

"I swore. Then I told her that she must either wear that ring or go without one. Her amiability conquered, and I consented to begin over once more. The next time I got ahead of the fates by giving a solitaire diamond. That was four months after she had accepted me.

"I was invited to her house to a dinner to celebrate our engagement. Molly and I sat side by side. I accidentally upset the saltcellar between us.

"'Throw it over your shoulder, quick!' she screamed. I grabbed the heavy cut glass saltcellar and, throwing it over my shoulder, smashed a mirror on the sideboard.

"'The salt! The salt!' she cried. 'Not the saltcellar.'

"'Confound the salt!' I blurted.

"She grabbed a fistful of the salt and tried to throw it over my shoulder; but, being in a hurry, she threw it into my eyes. Great heavens, how it smarted! I lost my temper and said a lot of things that shocked my prospective mother-in-law, but the father-in-law looked at me approvingly, and I knew he was on my side, though he didn't dare say so.

"Molly wet her napkin in a finger bowl and wiped the salt out of my eyes. She was so lovely about it all that I quieted down, and, though the rest of the dinner was not exhilarating, there was at least no bad feeling.

"Of course I insisted on replacing the mirror, and, of course, I was not permitted to do so. My own celebration of our engagement was to be a party to the opera. I paid $25 for a box and invited the whole of Molly's family—seven persons. Everything looked promising, the weather was fine and we had every reason to believe we would have a good time. But just as we were entering the opera house Molly and I both stubbed our toes on a half step between the entrance passage and the foyer. Do you know, that girl turned and led the whole party out on to the sidewalk, where she declared that nothing could induce her to go in again, for the opera house would burn down if she did and there would be a holocaust. So we all went home.

"I treated her so coldly after that that I supposed she would break the engagement. She bore it all beautifully. But I had had enough of it and determined to get my freedom. I went to a seventh daughter of a seventh daughter and paid her well to give me an unlucky horoscope. She said that I was born on the unluckiest day of the year at the dark of the moon, with all the unlucky stars in the firmament in the ascendant. This I sent to Molly, who in a tearful letter broke the engagement. Thank heaven I'm a free man."

CHILDREN IN PAIN

Never cry as do children who are suffering from hunger. Such is the cause of all babies who cry and are treated for sickness, when they really are suffering from hunger. This is caused from their food not being assimilated but devoured by worms. A few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge will cause them to cease crying and begin to thrive at once. Give it a trial. Sold at Simmons' Drug Store.

Ptomaines.

Ptomaines, according to Quain, are alkaloids produced by the decomposition of animal substances. The word ptomaine was at first restricted to alkaloids produced by cadaveric decomposition, but it is now also employed to designate alkaloids of animal origin formed during life as a result of chemical changes induced by some agency or other acting within the organism.

Youth and Pleasure.

Youth is not the age of pleasure. We then expect too much, and we are, therefore, exposed to daily disappointments and mortifications. When we are a little older and have brought down our wishes to our experience, then we become calm and begin to enjoy ourselves.—Lord Liverpool.

Fortune.

Fortune is like the market, where many times if you can stay a little the price will fall, and again it is sometimes like a sibyl's offer, which at first offereth the commodity at full, then consumeth part and part and still holdeth up the price.—Bacon.

A proper secrecy is the only mystery of able men. Mystery is the only secrecy of weak and cunning ones.

SUMMER DIARRHŒA IN CHILDREN

During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention, so as to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Rev. M. O. Stockland, pastor of the First M. E. Church, Little Falls, Minn., writes: "We have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for several years and find it a very valuable remedy, especially for summer disorders in children." Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Peevishness.

Peevishness may be considered the canker of life that destroys its vigor and checks its improvement; that creeps on with hourly depredations and taints and vitiates what it cannot consume.—Johnson.

Probably.

Probably a woman would be a bride to her husband longer if she should continue making company of him. Most women begin to save their jam for visitors when they have been married three months.

UNNECESSARY EXPENSE.

Acute attacks of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery come on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's service in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

A Comprehensive Verdict.

A child in an English town was killed by a steam atomizing apparatus falling on it. The coroner's jury brought in the following curious verdict: "Death resulted from shock following bronchitis and whooping cough, caused through the shaking of the house by the firing of a gun at the government proof butts on the Pulmstead marshes."

Raising His Wages.

Y.—You know I told you a few days after he employed me that he said he'd raise my wages in a month or so?

Z.—Yes. And didn't he?

"No. I misunderstood him. He said he'd try to raise my first week's wages by that time. I haven't had a shilling yet."—London Tit-Bits.

Compromise.

"I have a little granddaughter," said a senator, "who is very fond of animals, especially dogs. Her mother has taught her to pronounce the word until it sounds like dahz. Her father sticks to the good old fashioned dawg, so the child has compromised, and now every canine is a dahg-dawg."

"MAKE HAY WHILE THE SUN SHINES."

There is a lesson in the work of the thrifty farmer. He knows that the bright sunshine may last but a day and he prepares for the showers which are so liable to follow. So it should be with every household. Dysentry, diarrhoea and cholera morbus may attack some member of the home without warning. Chamberlain's Colic, Chorer and Diarrhoea Remedy, which is the best known medicine for these diseases, should always be kept at hand as immediate treatment is necessary and delay may prove fatal. Sold at Simmons' drug store.

The Under Side of Fish.

Experiments have been made with flounders in order to determine whether the whiteness of the under sides of those fish is due to the exclusion of light, and the presence of color on their upper sides to exposure to light. The fish experimented upon were kept living in a glass tank, having a mirror placed beneath, so as to reflect light upon the under sides of the fish. One of these prisoners survived for three years under conditions so strangely different from its ordinary habits of life, and all of them exhibited the development of spots of pigment on their lower surfaces. The experimenters concluded that it is exposure to light that causes the coloration of the upper parts of the bodies, not only of flounders, but of other fish, and, conversely, that it is to the comparative absence of light that the whiteness of under sides of fish is due. They extend the same principle to explain the colorless condition of the skins of many animals that pass all their lives in caves.

WHY FRET AND WORRY

When your child has a severe cold. You need not fear pneumonia or other pulmonary diseases. Keep supplied with Ballard's Horehound Syrup—a positive cure for colds, coughs, whooping cough and bronchitis. Mrs. Hall, of Sioux Falls, S. D., writes: "I have used your wonderful Ballard's Horehound Syrup, on my children for five years. Its results have been wonderful." Sold at Simmons' Drug Store.

Bird Songs.

Naturalists have long been puzzled as to how birds learn to sing. Does it come natural to a bird of a certain species to sing the song common to its kind or does it learn to imitate whatever song it most hears during the early days of its life? Experiments made by a well known student of bird life proved that most birds simply learn by imitation. He placed young linnets to be reared by skylarks, woodlarks, titlarks and other breeds, and in every case the linnet learned the song of his foster parents. Again, a number of linnets were reared where they had no chance of hearing the song of any bird at all. In due course they began to sing, but their song was entirely original. The cuckoo, however, seems to be an exception, for although it is almost invariably reared by foster parents of any species but its own, it always sings to perfection its own peculiar song, quite uninfluenced by the vocal efforts of its guardians.

DON'T BE BLUE

And lose all interest when help is within reach. Herbine will make that liver perform its duties properly. S. B. Vaughn, Elba, Ala., writes: "Being a constant sufferer from constipation and a disordered liver, I have found Herbine to be the best medicine, for these troubles, on the market. I have used it constantly. I believe it to be the best medicine of its kind, and I wish all sufferers from these troubles to know the good Herbine has done me." Sold at Simmons' Drug Store.

Act Quickly

Look out for that "rainy day!"

It comes sooner or later for so many—we can't tell to-day who may want on the morrow.

Prepare now while you are able for any misfortune that may overtake you. Don't run any risks.

Here is something that will help you provide for the rainy day—an investment that carries with it unusual benefits and proves its value from the minute you buy the stock.

Smiths' Cash Store is well and favorably known all over the West. Its reputation is of the best and in volume of business it is making tremendous strides forward every year. Some five years ago the stock was selling for $5.00 a share. Today the price is $10.00 a share. These figures demonstrate what a thriving institution is this biggest Mail Order House on the Pacific Coast.

Each share of stock is guaranteed to earn 6 per cent a year. But the greatest benefit is derived by the stockholder from the discounts given to the holders of five or more shares of stock. You can buy anything to eat, use or wear at the same price the goods would cost your local dealers. We call them "Owner's Prices."

Suppose you buy goods that altogether cost $50 at our wholesale rate. If you are a stockholder you get a discount amounting to $2.50, and your bill is only $47.50. The saving you will make in one year in addition to the earnings will in all probability more than cover the investment.

Year after year you will be effecting big savings. But should hard times knock at your door—and you must not be too sure that something of that sort will not happen—think what it will mean to you to be able to buy everything at cost prices. It might be the very thing that would help you to survive the period of distress.

We are increasing the amount of our capital stock. We are telling you about the stock because we think you ought to invest for your own sake. You couldn't buy stock in any other concern that would pay you so well.

It will not be long before the price of the stock is advanced. You know that means there are not many days remaining in which you can take advantage of this great offer.

For your convenience we are printing a coupon which you ought to fill out—it does not obligate you in any way. Send it at once.
